

PARTIAL SECURITY ISN'T SECURITY

HOW PROOFPPOINT SOLVES YOUR ENTIRE EMAIL SECURITY PROBLEM

Today's email threats are targeted, varied, and relentless. To stop them, you need a multilayered defense that:

- Stops ransomware and other advanced malware attacks
- Blocks non-malware threats such as email fraud
- Helps keep your data safe if something gets through

Here's why people trust Proofpoint Advanced Email Security to solve their entire email threat problem

The most effective protection against malware

We use multiple layers of sandboxing and analysis to keep up with the latest attacks. We spot both known threats and new threats that no one has seen before.

We stop threats from entering your environment and give you deep forensics to understand them.

The best user experience

The best experience is one that's tailored to each user. We block unsafe emails from the inbox but give your users individual control over their bulk mail.

Your users decide how and where they want their email delivered.

The most flexible email management toolkit

Your email security infrastructure should work the way you do—not force you to work around its limitations.

We can help you deploy a set-and-forget solution based on your unique policies, risks and business needs.

Multilayered email fraud protection

We detect and block domain spoofing, lookalike domain threats, and display-name spoofing. We integrate email authentication at the email gateway to help keep your supply chain secure.

Our multilayered approach stops all major types of email fraud.

The best defense against credential phishing

Our unique sandboxing techniques detect phishing websites and stop your people from clicking unsafe links.

Fast, automated incident response

We automatically remove unsafe email from users' inboxes—even after they've been delivered or forwarded to colleagues.

If a "safe" URL later turns bad, we still negate the threat.

The deepest threat intelligence and visibility you can get

We give you complete access to all the intelligence you need about the threats affecting you.

Our researchers draw from more than 300 billion unique data points to uncover today's biggest threats.

With Advanced Email Security, you can manage all of the email threats that matter, not just some of them.
