

Premium Threat Information Service

Proofpoint Premium Threat Information Service provides deeper understanding of the ongoing threat landscape and your organization’s place in it, enabling you to prioritize security decisions. With expertise on call, our customers gain better situational understanding and make better security decisions faster. This value is based on three components of Premium Threat Information Service: exclusive access to experts, actionable threat intelligence, and advance warning for emerging threats.

Exclusive access to senior threat analysts

Premium Threat Information Service customers get direct access to industry-leading threat researchers through three 1-hour meetings, backed up by six hours of research, with additional meetings available on an add-on basis. These interactive briefings can include personalized threat research and live discussion of your threat challenges. From board-level threat landscape presentations to malware analysis and indicators of compromise (IOCs), you set the agenda.

Actionable threat intelligence

Our team provides you with individualized research and benchmarking in a monthly report. Gain regular insight into the threat landscape and your organization’s place in it with statistics including top malware targeting you, top targeted individuals, top campaigns, and how you compare to industry peers, as well as other trends in malicious campaigns directed specifically at your organization.

Advance insight and warning

Our Analyst Logbook gives you privileged access to the latest threat and actor developments via as-it-happens researcher write-ups. Available 24/7 in the Analyst Logbook portal, this visibility can provide early warning, allowing your organization to speedily adopt proactive defenses and an improved security posture.

Proofpoint Premium Threat Information Service offers the additional insight and expertise to help you make better security decisions, complementing and enhancing your current security investments.
